Course Aims

This course is intended to deepen and widen your pre-existing knowledge of Asian or Buddhist art, and to develop critical frameworks for rethinking prevailing canons of Buddhist art. It covers a selection of artefacts, sites and works of art from over two millennia from ca. 300BCE to the 21st century. The geographical scope mirrors the internationalisation of Buddhism, from South Asia to East, Southeast Asia, and the Western world, since the first millennium. We ask: how have Buddhist teachings been interpreted by image-makers over space and time, and how have the representations been subsequently experienced, read and used, and what makes “Buddhist art” “Buddhist” and “art”? These studies will provide a basis for further in-depth studies of Buddhist Art.

Intended Learning Outcomes (ILO)

By the end of the course, you should be able to:

1. Identify and discuss Buddhist artefacts, sites and works of art from ca. 300BCE to the 21st century.
2. Discern and discuss adaptations and transformations of Buddhist concepts and imagery from South to East and Southeast Asia, and to Euro-America.
3. Demonstrate visual memory skills and be able to differentiate between the different styles, and identify the figures and symbols represented, in Buddhist Art.
4. Present research findings related to Buddhist Art in a clear and cohesive manner.
5. Share and critique analyses of Buddhist Art in a constructive manner.

Course Content

What are the most representative examples of Buddhist artefacts, sites and works of art from ca 300BCE to the 21st century?

You will be shown a range of Buddhist visual materials from South, East and Southeast Asia, Europe and North America from the inception of Buddhist art to the contemporary: stupas, seals, coins, monumental sculptures, paintings, installations, etc.

What are the principal figures and symbols featured in Buddhist art?

You will learn how to identify the different Buddhist superior beings and their meanings: arhats, Buddhas, bodhisattvas, etc. They are also initiated to the symbolic meanings of aniconic representations.

How have Buddhist teachings been interpreted by image-makers over space and time and how have the representations been subsequently experienced, read and used?

You will explore the ways in which the representation of a single concept, figure or symbol transformed over space and time, as well as how the reception of the representation has varied.

What makes “Buddhist art” “Buddhist” and “art”?

You will be invited to reflect on the contradictions between the raison d'être of Buddhist images and the notion of art as a commodity today.

Class assignments

The Oral Presentation is an exercise on the analysis of an artwork's formal and iconographic qualities, intrinsic meanings and art historical significance, as well as its effective communication. The Written Assignment demands that you compare and contrast, and engage with a wider range of issues. The Visual Memory Exercise trains you in visual memory skills which are vital for the study of art.

Assessment (includes both continuous and summative assessment)

Course Policies and Student Responsibilities

(1) General

You are expected to complete all assigned readings, activities, assignments, attend all classes punctually and complete all scheduled assignments by due dates. You are expected to take responsibility to follow up with assignments and course related announcements. You are expected to participate in all project critiques, class discussions and activities. No late submission will be accepted.

(2) Punctuality

You are expected to be punctual for all classes. If you are more than 15 minutes late, you will be deemed as absent.

(3) Absenteeism

In-class activities make up a significant portion of your course grade. Absence from class without a valid reason will affect your participation grade. Valid reasons include falling sick supported by a medical certificate and participation in NTU's approved activities supported by an excuse letter from the relevant bodies. There will be no make-up opportunities for in-class activities.

Academic Integrity

Good academic work depends on honesty and ethical behaviour. The quality of your work as a student relies on adhering to the principles of academic integrity and to the NTU Honour Code, a set of values shared by the whole university community. Truth, Trust and Justice are at the core of NTU's shared values.

As a student, it is important that you recognize your responsibilities in understanding and applying the principles of academic integrity in all the work you do at NTU. Not knowing what is involved in maintaining academic integrity does not excuse academic dishonesty. You need to actively equip yourself with strategies to avoid all forms of academic dishonesty, including plagiarism, academic fraud, collusion and cheating. If you are uncertain of the definitions of any of these terms, you should go to the academic integrity website for more information. Consult your instructor(s) if you need any clarification about the requirements of academic integrity in the course.
